Grand Ballroom at The Montcalm

Best suited to? Awards ceremonies, weddings, banquets and conferences.
What's it got? Glittering crystal chandeliers and macassar ebony wood bring a luxurious touch to this event space, which is privately connected to the five-star Montcalm hotel in London's Marble Arch.

The venue's previous incarnation as the King David Suite, part of the Western Marble Arch Synagogue, was closed for 13 years before the renovation project.

The event space officially relaunched in May and can accommodate up to 556 guests theatre-style or 600 for a reception.

Anything else? The venue has installed state-of-the-art technology, with internet speeds of one gigabit per second – aimed at events requiring webcasting – along with integrated LCD projectors, a PA system and hanging points for up to 3,000kg.

Preferred supplier list? In-house.
